

"Her lyrics challenge listeners the way that Michael Moore challenges viewers."

Ann Forcier, The Recorder, Greenfield, MA

Biography

She saw Led Zeppelin on their first US tour and loves Joan Baez, but don't expect some wide-eyed hippie in tie-dye cooing about love and daisies. Sure, if you went to the first Woodstock and you want peace-loving music, you've come to the right place, but your kids will also love her refreshingly direct folk-rock with a touch of blues, vintage R&B and yep, even techno, with anthems that'll make you dance around your living room or call your congress person, some at the same time.

Like so many others, she took piano as a kid and taught herself the guitar as a young adult, but she made a detour to become a pharmacist. Not just one of those white-coated clerks at a chain store, but at her own store. At the young age of 55, she climbed up on stage, sans the lab coat, and sang for an audience that was so enthusiastic that soon after she sold the pharmacy and made music a focus. Linq does nothing halfway, diving into the music world with a single in 2003 and then her first album Journey in 2004. Another full-length album, Fast Moving Dream, came out in 2006, and a 2-song enhanced CD with video, Change the Picture, George!, was released in 2007. Full-length albums Life Goes On and Rx and the Side Effects were both released in 2009.

Linq performs around New England and at selected gigs outside the region including showcases at the 2009 Indiegrl Conference in Nashville and at the 2010 International Indiegrl Conference and Festival in Knoxville. She also played at BB King's Blues Club in Nashville in August 2009. Her first video, "George Orwell Where Are You?" has remained near the top of the list of Neil Young's Living With War Today Top Protest Videos since it debuted in 2007. She's been the featured artist on several sites including Indiegrl, Gay Guitarists Worldwide, GoGirls and more.

Awards include an Honorable Mention for "Tired" from the International Narrative Song Competition, in the top 50 in the American Idol Underground ("Victim of the War"), and Fast Moving Dream was in the top 40 on the Outvoice charts for an entire year. "Change the Picture" from Change the Picture, George! and also available on Life Goes On, was nominated for the 2009 Just Plain Folks Music Awards (world's largest with 560,000 song submissions) in the Political Song category. Linq was also one of the five nominees for OUTMusician of the Year (music + activism) in the 2009 OUTMusic Awards, and she was named Musical Artist of 2009 in the 2009 Pride in the Arts Awards. David Byrne of The Windy City Times (Chicago, IL) named title track "Life

LinqSongs Publishing
Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939
978-249-4796 • linq@rcn.com
www.LinqMusic.com

Goes On” the 2009 Song of the Year. Linq was named OUTstanding OUTMusician for her music and activism at the 7th Annual OUTMusic Awards in May 2011.

Rx and the Side Effects broke into the Roots Music Report Top 50 Folk the first week out and remained there for five weeks, peaking at #23 the week of September 25, 2009. The album also peaked at #4 in the Massachusetts Section (all genres) the same week. Curve Magazine calls “No Person on the Line” the “best healthcare rage song ever.”

Linq believes that music is the most effective tool we have to bring people together, to celebrate each other and to break down barriers. And if it takes a former pharmacist to do that, all the better. It’s a medicine we can all use.

Media

LINQ :

"One of today's top LGBTQI songwriting advocates..."
New Music, Bear Radio Network, September 22, 2010

LINQ :

"Linq's 'No Person on the Line' Best healthcare rage song ever..."
Curve Magazine, September 2010

LINQ :

"The 21st century's female Dylan, Linq is writing songs about social and environmental issues while offering up dance tunes and anthems that you'll be singing long after her concert is over."
Music Up Close With Janie, Scope Magazine, June 17, 2010

LIFE GOES ON: "Any open-minded, socially conscious music lover will applaud Linq's work with a standing ovation."

R. Ashley, Positive Music Association

LINQ - RX AND THE SIDE EFFECTS: "It's hard to imagine a more timely song cycle than Linq's 'Rx and the Side Effects'." "Linq succeeds in this ambitious recorded endeavor by looking at the health industry from many different angles, and with multiple musical approaches."

D. MacIntosh, Indie-Music Review, December 5, 2009

LINQ - RX AND THE SIDE EFFECTS:

New England sensation Linq is back with a new CD. In Rx and The Side Effects, ex-pharmacist Linq, sings about the evils of prescription medicines on Prescription Chaos, Side Effects; an inside voice that we all might want to take note of. With a folky, fifties yet contemporary rock sound, Linq has gone where few will go.

(2)

Linqsongs Publishing
Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939
978-249-4796 • linq@linqmusic.com
www.linqmusic.com

Money Today tells a heartfelt story of money and success, and Linq has the knack of story-telling in a moving and musical way. More stories of life and its atrocities on Tired, and Simple Woman. Get a box of tissues ladies or you won't get through this collection. And as Linq prescribes, Take two CDs and call her in the morning.
"Womens Rising Music", August 2009

LINQ - RX AND THE SIDE EFFECTS:

As a former professional pharmacist turned prolific indie artist Boston's Linq offers a musical manifesto on the current hotbed societal issue of fixing the health care industry. Anyone who has been watching the debate unfold but is yet to grasp the breadth and depth of the problem and dire circumstances that often occur when patients seek medical attention in the United States - well, Rx and The Side Effects, the fourth full-length album from the modern folk rocker - is as good of a place to start as any to get a clear-eyed offering into all that has gone wrong with health care in America. By raising the clarion call on issues such as over-prescriptions, the uninsured, post-care poverty, the burden of coverage and a variety of drug related crimes - the ten songs on Linq's sixth overall release reveal an intelligent and insightful artist with a conscience who speaks out on the issues. Presented in singer-songwriter format Linq will often mix it up to include Blues, R&B and techno strains with her dominant folk delivery and the results are most effective on the anthemic "Prescription Chaos" and the rockin' "Side Effects". While Linq may not have a solution or a cure for the ills of the health care industry - she does have a diagnosis - and it doesn't look too good. Maybe a dose of these good songs from Linq are the only injection the industry needs to get itself healed once and for all.

Richard J. Lynch, Kweevak.com, August 2009

LIFE GOES ON: "I mean this when I say you have found a unique sound and artist when you listen to Linq. Her sound does have a hippy generation, sixties vibe to it but her songwriting and voice have her original stamp."

T. Petrossi, Rockin' Moms, April 6, 2009

LIFE GOES ON: "This is an excellent collection and work from rising artist Linq and her cohorts. Our pick for the new Woman on the Rise."

Women's Rising Music, March 29, 2009

LIFE GOES ON: "Using stories drawn from real life experience, Linq's intelligently timed lyrics and guitar licks resonate loudly the sound of socially conscious change that not only entertains listeners, but educates them as well."

D. Aquino, Greenfield Town Crier, March 13, 2009

LIFE GOES ON: "As an indie music writer, I feel seriously outclassed here. Linq has no business being on an indie site. She should be opening for Bob Dylan. Or Joni Mitchell. Janis Ian would love her too. It's not just Linq's talent that puts her on this level. As a protest folk singer/songwriter and activist, she somehow manages to avoid the "Everything Sucks" sub-genre that so many indie protest folkies fall into."

J. Layton, Indie-Music.com, March 7, 2009

(3)

Linqsongs Publishing
Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939
978-249-4796 • linq@linqmusic.com
www.linqmusic.com

LIFE GOES ON: “Linq’s songs can be boldly emphatic as well as intimate. Possessed of a fine musical voice, she can sing candidly about broken relationships as well as rally people with her social comment/social protest songs.”

R. Duckett, Arts and Entertainment (Worcester Telegram), February 25, 2009

LIFE GOES ON: “Great album.”

A. Lewis, “New England Music Scrapbook”, February 14, 2009

LIFE GOES ON: “It’s a very old-school, not-hipster-ironic brand of feel-good, rollicking from folk to almost-reggae, light blues to acoustic balladry...”

J. Heflin, The Valley Advocate, February 5, 2009

FAST MOVING DREAM: “I TRULY dig your vibe and thoughtfulness.”

DJ Harris, The SoupyGato Show, January 31, 2008

FAST MOVING DREAM: “I loved this CD...” “Linq will mark her territory on the fight against prejudice, hate, and ignorance all within this one remarkable CD.”

Kristin Theckston, BacstagePass, November 2007

“HER LYRICS CHALLENGE listeners the way that Michael Moore challenges viewers.”

A. Forcier, Arts and Entertainment (The Recorder), July 5, 2007 (Greenfield, MA)”

”YOU MIGHT call Linq a modern-day protest singer.”

Guy-Michael Grande “Ear Candy” the Chronicle, Dec. 2006 (Middletown, CT).

FAST MOVING DREAM “... her electric folk rock sound - ‘appealing to Woodstock originals’ - is good, and I’ve learned my lesson about judging a book by its cover yet again.”

Anthony King, Bay Windows, Boston, MA, 7/20/06

LINQ - FAST MOVING DREAM: “Linq’s latest release, ‘Fast Moving Dream’, is a collection of thought provoking songs sure to engage the listener. Her skillful use of words coupled with an enchanting sound leaves the listener wanting more.”

Georgia Moncrief for GoGirlsMusic.com, June 2006

News

August 2011: Linq's Latest CD, Caught in the Act Acoustic is being manufactured as you're reading this, and the projected release date is October 3rd, 2011. This up-close-and-personal, live solo acoustic project features mostly previously-released songs along with a couple of new ones. Percussionist Lee Madeloni joins Linq on about half of the tracks. It's quite a departure from her previous albums, and more closely represents the vibe of her solo shows.

(4)

Linqsongs Publishing

Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939

978-249-4796 • linq@linqmusic.com

www.linqmusic.com

July 2011: Linq's interview with Mike Sargent on Niteshiftz aired on WBAI Pacifica Radio in New York City shortly after midnight on Monday, July 12th, and is now available on podcast if you'd like to listen:
<http://www.lifeislikesciencefiction.com/lifeislikescifi/?p=991>

Her interview starts off with the airing of "Oh Bully" about 14 minutes into the program. The remainder of the show centers around the topic of bullying, including some interesting commentary from live phone calls with listeners.

OUTMUSIC AWARD: On May 23, 2011 Linq won the OUTstanding OUTmusician Award at the 7th Annual 2011 OUTmusic Awards in New York City - for her newest release, "Oh Bully" - an urgent response to the recent and tragic school bullying suicides.

May 2011: TOP TEN! Linq's single "Oh Bully" rocketed to #6 on the OutVoice May 2011 Top Ten Song Chart, and her CD LIFE GOES ON was #5 on the OutVoice May 2011 Top Twenty CD Chart.

December 2010: "OH BULLY" was one of the songs featured on Pride Showcase End of Year Special Best of 2010 on QNation FM (12/28/2010). www.prideshowcase.com

August 2010: TOP 100! The International Association of Independent Recording Artists (IAIRA) has verified that "Money Today", from RX and the SIDE EFFECTS, is eligible for certification as an International 'Top 100' based on its #75 position on August 14, 2010 one of the charts monitored by IAIRA. www.iaira.com

April 2010: AWARD: Linq was named Musical Artist of 2009 in the Pride in the Arts Music Awards. www.prideinthearts.com.

September 2009: RX and the SIDE EFFECTS: Linq has been interviewed by JD Doyle, who featured RX and the SIDE EFFECTS on the September edition of Audiofile, the monthly CD review segment carried by This Way Out (www.thiswayout.org) on its 175+ stations around the world. The Audiofile site is at www.audiofile.org, and all past segments are archived at www.queermusicheritage.com/af.html.

August 2009: RX and the SIDE EFFECTS, Linq's fourth full-length album, was released on August 25th, and instantly landed in the "Top 50 Folk" in the Roots Music Report for the week of August 28th. The RMR charts are compiled from radio airplay data only (# of spins). www.rootsmusicreport.com

August 25th, 2009: Linq announced the release of her CD, "Rx and the Side Effects", tales of health care and business from an insider's point of view.

August 2009: CHANGE THE PICTURE: "Change the Picture" by Linq from CHANGE THE PICTURE, GEORGE! (also available on LIFE GOES ON) was one of the 22 Political Song nominees in the 2009 Just Plain Folks Music Awards, literally the world's largest music awards with 42,000 albums and 560,000 songs received.

Just Plain Folks is a community of more than 51,500 Songwriters, Recording Artists and Music Industry Professionals — and host to the world's largest independent music awards. The organization was created to provide a network of cooperation and inclusion for musicians. www.justplainfolks.org

LIFE GOES ON Review: Windy City Times, Chicago, IL:

Pop Making Sense by David Byrne with Tony Peregrin, April 8, 2009

The sun beautifully reflecting over the water on the cover of Linq's third album, Life Goes On, perfectly suits

(5)

Linqsongs Publishing
Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939
978-249-4796 • linq@linqmusic.com
www.linqmusic.com

the set's mood. It captures the assuring serenity of the harmonies on the title track's reprise and even catches a glimpse of the potential environmental loss as heard on the opener "Where Will the Wild Ones Go." The out musician brings up the paranoia of big brother on "George Orwell Where Are You?," then offers a fun introduction to queer sexuality on "Diversity Dance." This one should be incorporated into high school and collegiate sociology curricula. Linq has a knack for harmonies and captivating choruses, like on "Will You Care" and "Ode to the Butterworth Boys." But it is the repetition of Linq singing "life goes on" throughout the reprise that I want to play on repeat for all perpetual pessimists and overreacting drama queens, so they can put life's curveballs into perspective. The Massachusetts-based Linq provides sound advice in her storytelling and makes the listener think about global consequences while harmonies melt over her folk-pop sound.

<http://www.wctimes.com/gay/lesbian/news/ARTICLE.php?AID=20857>

December 2008: The Pride Music Playoffs Top 25 Songs for 2008 have been announced by the Duke and Megaclectic, and "Change the Picture" by Linq finished second according to win/loss record and number of votes. <http://pride.musicplayoffs.com>

December 2008: Linq was the Featured Artist of the month at www.GoGirlsMusic.com.

November 25, 2007: After a consistent presence on the charts at www.indieglobal.com since last summer, Linq reached the Number 1 slot for the week of November 11, 2007. She also finished in fifth place for the entire month of October.

October 2007: After spending five weeks on the AMERICAN IDOL UNDERGROUND charts, LINQ broke into the top 50, landing at #43 for the week of September 24th with "Victim of the War" from her 2006 release FAST MOVING DREAM.

October 2007: Kate Kulas, host/producer of Rainbow Connection – the Music Mix on KUMD in Duluth, MN, announced that LINQ was the MOST REQUESTED ARTIST of the September Listener Request Shows.

Sept. 2007: It's official! FAST MOVING DREAM (2006) has been on the Outvoice Top 40 Chart for a full year. www.rainbowworldradio.com

September 6th, 2007:

LIVING WITH WAR TODAY: "George Orwell Where Are You?" from CHANGE THE PICTURE, GEORGE! (Feb 2007) is currently (Sept 6, 2007) ranked #24 on Neil Young's Top 280 Protest Videos. www.neilyoung.com/lwwtoday.

(6)

Linqsongs Publishing
Diane Lincoln • 187 Athol Richmond Rd. • Royalston MA 01368-8939
978-249-4796 • linq@linqmusic.com
www.linqmusic.com